

Gifts in Honor & Memory

Friends and members of DCHA are invited to consider honorary and memorial giving to the museum as ways to mark a special occasion, to honor someone special, or to express bereavement. These charitable contributions can be made in lieu of gift-giving, sending flowers or cards and can be considered for any occasion including: graduation, wedding, retirement, birthday, etc.

DCHA will notify the person (or the family of the deceased) when your gift is received, but unless requested, will not report the amount. You will receive an acknowledgement for your records. All gifts are tax deductible to the extent allowed by IRS law and will be placed in our endowment fund, unless otherwise requested in writing.

Another very affordable way for you to help DCHA is to consider taking out a life insurance policy with DCHA named as the beneficiary. Again, all money received from such a source would be earmarked for our endowment, unless otherwise indicated by you.
